

Laura Carter
Microsoft
Seattle, WA

Laura Holloway Carter is Assistant General Counsel – Privacy & Regulatory Affairs at Microsoft Corporation. Ms. Carter leads a team that develops the company’s telecommunications policy and advises Microsoft’s business units on compliance with telecommunications laws and regulations around the world. Laura has been with Microsoft since 2009.

Prior to joining Microsoft, Laura spent much her career in the U.S. wireless telecommunications industry, working at Nextel Communications, Sprint-Nextel, Alltel and Verizon where she engaged primarily on FCC and state legislative and regulatory policy.

Laura has over 20 years of experience advising companies on U.S. and global telecommunications law and policy. Laura currently sits on the board of TeamChild, a nonprofit organization that supports teens who are at risk of involvement with the juvenile justice system. Laura previously served on the Federal Communications Bar Association’s Foundation Board, the FCBA’s Executive Committee and The Wireless Foundation, a nonprofit organization dedicated to developing and supporting initiatives that use wireless technology to help American communities. Laura holds a BA in Business Administration from Baylor University and a JD from the University of Oklahoma. She and her husband, Jon, reside in Kirkland, Washington.