Scholarship & Award Opportunities

The two scholarships listed below are awarded annually. The Scholarship & Awards Committee encourages you to submit seminar papers, papers submitted for writing competitions (excluding moot court), or law review notes (excluding appellate briefs). Please review the criteria below. You may submit one paper per award.

Frank C. Love Memorial Scholarship

Awarded annually to a second-year student who has demonstrated high academic performance and promise with strong emphasis given to the student's demonstrated skill in legal writing. Students applying for this scholarship should submit one copy of their written work. Only works that are substantively completed stylistically will be considered. Examples of acceptable submissions are seminar papers, papers submitted for writing competitions (excluding moot court), or law review notes (excluding appellate briefs). Law review notes or comments will be accepted as long as the student does not submit the final edited draft. $3,000 Award

Salem Civil Liberties Awards

Awarded annually to a second- or third-year student who has written the best paper relating to the expansion of civil rights. Preference for articles on constitutional civil rights including topics on the First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments, but any topic advancing civil rights issues will be acceptable.

Award 1: Awarded to a student whose law review submission was accepted for publication in either the Oklahoma Law Review (OLR), the American Indian Law Review (AILR), or the Oil & Gas, Natural Resources, and Energy Journal (ONE J).
$1,000 Award

Award 2: Awarded to a student for a paper that has not been accepted for publication. This does not preclude the paper from being selected for publication at a later date.
$1,000 Award

Note: Please include a cover sheet with the name and number of the award you are applying for, the professor for whom the paper was written, and whether the article has been approved for publication in OLR, AILR, or ONE J. Please remove your name from the paper (i.e., title page and headers) so the submission remains anonymous to the Committee. Submissions must be received electronically (rlucas@ou.edu) before end of day on Sunday, April 30, 2023.
